This requires special conditions:

1) planting the seeds in the right place,
depending on which seeds they are;

2) Thaw or spring;

3) fertilized with the best soil.

PERSONALITY

You are proud, serious and secretive, you know what you know and you see no reason to tell others unless they can convince you otherwise. You like to be looked up to and respected. Oak trees are the best kind of trees, not to mention the most intelligent. You feel that all trees should stick together and look after themselves. You do not like the idea of trees turning evil, but even evil trees deserve some consideration.

OBJECTIVES

12 Find out what happened to the Tree of Protection

13 Plant another Tree of Protection

43 Become ruler of the Wild Woods

53 Protect the treasure trees

58 Find out what is so special about the mound

HISTORY

You have been growing in the Wild Woods, near the burial mounds for many years now. There are many talking trees growing in that area. Wysteria, another tree growing in the area, once said to you that the Wild Wood was the most perfect place in the whole of narnia and you agree with her.

You are not sure but you think that you can remember a time when it was not Winter. Your clearest memory of that time is of Mr Beavers great great Grandfather saying to you, now remember this is a secret just between us. You were so young you can not even remember what he was talking about.

Winter is not a pleasant time for trees. You grow very slowly and cannot get Hit points back. Things are much better in Spring where you gain not only the advantages of being Good but also additional advantages because you are a tree.

You have come to the conclave of the good forces to represent all the trees, to act as their spokesperson and make sure that their interests are not forgotten. Weep Willow, poor thing, is not up to your great standard. It is so puny and ineffectual that you have to continually look out for its interests and help it along.
