PERSONALITY

You are chivalrous, proud, valorous, courteous to women, loyal to your Liege lord (when you have one) and worshipful of Aslan. You are also totally impractical and ineffectual. You refuse to acknowledge the limitations of your size and expect everyone else to also ignore them. In fact you tend to over emphasize your abilities and honour for this reason. You champion the cause of the Good people of Narnia. You want to right all wrongs and stamp out all Evil.

OBJECTIVES

- 12 Find out what happened to the Tree of Protection
- 17 Get your tail back
- 26 Get the Crowns of Narnia back
- 63 Get Jadis' crown

HISTORY

You are a self appointed Knight of the Order of Aslan. You have traveled all around Narnia trying to drum up support for the cause of the Good creatures everywhere. You had no success. People had no rallying point, no central person that could lead them. The news that a Son of Adam has been seen in the world at last inspires you with hope.

One of the oddities of Narnia you have discovered in your travels is the location of the trees of Gold and Silver. These were two trees that grew from coins that accidentally fell to the ground in the early days when the world was young. The crowns of the queens and Kings of Narnia were made from them. The trees are almost sacred to you for that reason. They are located in the Wild wood, half a mile from the lamp post in a small hidden valley completely surrounded by brambles.
