

LOCKJAW/GAGGLE

(Werewolf)

ALIGNMENT : EVIL

FACTION : NONE

LEADER :

MEMBERS KNOWN :

ALIGNMENT :

STATISTICS: Lockjaw Gaggle

HIT POINTS : 18 14

ATTACK : 12 7

DAMAGE : 7 4

POWERS & SKILLS :

Change into Gaggle 20

Open locks 19

Sneak 17

Steal 18

Climb 18

Hide 18

POSSESSIONS :

Dust of Disappearance (one use)

PERSONALITY

Lockjaw is a very intelligent, sophisticated creature. When he wants to charm there are none more skilled. He is also very greedy and self centered.

Gaggle is kind but very dumb. He needs people to help him all the time. Otherwise he keeps hurting himself.

OBJECTIVES

14 Become immortal

25 Rob the treasury of the Red Dwarves

58 Find out what is so special about the Mound

59 Find out what Silenus is up to

HISTORY

You are a skilled and experienced thief, as well as being a werewolf. Being able to change your physical appearance is very useful in your line of work, especially when you steal from the White Witch. If anyone had suggested to you one week ago that you would do such a mad thing, you would have laughed. Well the price was too good, and you actually got away with it.

The Hag, Agatha, offered you eternal life to steal the witch's gold wand. The temptation was too much. What is more, she even provided magical assistance. She gave you some Dust of Disappearance, not much, only enough for the one job, but definitely the real thing. You were sensible with it of course. Such things do not come your way easily, so you only used half of the dust you were given. This meant that it ran out while you were still in the Witch's castle and a guard saw you. This was not a problem for a werewolf, however, you simply tore his throat out. As you left the castle you were spotted by a talking squirrel. While you were thinking of the best way to kill it you realised that, not only did it think you were an enemy of the Witch, it was offering to help you escape. You quickly thought of a cover story. You said the long package you were carrying was something you had bought from a magician. He said it would aid you in rescuing your brother, who had been turned to stone. It had not worked and you were now on your way back to the wizard to have words with him. It could not have worked better. The squirrel was also trying to get someone back from being stoned. You commiserated all the way back to the woods, while the squirrel covered your tracks. Squirrels are very good at that sort of thing. He has only ever seen you in man form and he insists on helping you get your brother unstoned. Such a misguided animal could come in useful.

The hag has not paid up yet. If she does not pay up she will find that a werewolf is a very dangerous enemy.